State board refuses Tabard liquor license

by Marilyn Mayor

The State Liquor Board says no, but Pat Lupo, ASSU president, and other proponents haven't given up yet in their attempt to acquire a Class A liquor license for the Tabard Inn, the campus coffee house. If the license does become a reality, it will be the first time in Washington history that liquor sales will be allowed on an undergraduate campus.

Within the next two weeks, Fr. Timothy Cronin, S.J., vice president for students; Jon Bowman, trustee and chairman of the President's Board on Building and Grounds; and Charles Moriarity, lawyer for S.U., will meet with the State Liquor Board and try to persuade the Board to reconsider S.U.'s application.

THE CAMPAIGN for a campus liquor license began early last summer. As the first step, the supporters successfully gained a re-zoning classification from the City of Seattle Zoning Committee on Aug. 4.

Next, an application was sent to the State Liquor Board for review. In a letter addressed to Lupo, the application was denied on the grounds that it is illegal to serve liquor at the University according to state law.

Lupo argues that this law specifically pertains to the U.W., which is a public institution and receives state funds. S.U., on the other hand, is a private University whose funding is governed by the Board of Trustees. Lupo adds that the Board of Trustees has given full approval to the application.

ANOTHER DRAWBACK of prime concern to the State Board is that the majority of students at S.U. are under the state drinking age and therefore would not benefit from the approval of this application.

Lupo, however, stressed in his return letter to the Board that state laws concerning consumption by minors would "be strictly regulated" and he "doesn't foresee any problems."

Speaking along the same lines, Lupo expressed disappointment that Initiative 262, which would have lowered the drinking age, was defeated last winter.

As it stands now, the application is at a standstill, but supporters haven't given up yet. The next two weeks should tell the final story.

Sign-ups open for ASSU and University committees

Students are needed to fill several vacancies on the University standing committees, according to John Peterson, ASSU first vice president.

Sign-ups for the following positions open today and will run until Tuesday, Oct. 10, during the hours of 2 to 4:30 p.m.: academic council, board of admissions, graduate council (graduate students only), library council, schedules / registration / space, student - faculty conduct review board and urban affairs.

The positions were vacated when the representatives graduated. They were all appointed on Nov. 3, 1971.

Sign-ups are also open for four senatorial positions and the position of freshman president.

ASSU officers discuss year's plans, projects

ASSU officers are beginning the new academic year by finishing up old business and discussing new projects.

Pat Lupo, ASSU president, is currently working on plans for the fall leadership conference, scheduled Oct. 22.

Reorganized last year after an absence of two years, the conference is designed to determine what the different segments of the campus want ASSU to accomplish, Lupo explained.

Lupo would like to establish more contact with dorm councils and campus organizations. He sees the leadership conference as one way of doing this.

Work this summer included the publication of the teacher evaluation. Results were sent to individual faculty members, the ASSU and the academic vice president. A copy is also available in the A. A. Lemieux Library.

The evaluation will only be conducted during winter quarter this year, to keep it up to date, Lupo said.

The student handbook was also revised over the summer, Lupo added. Copies will be available soon.

A MAJOR revision, according to Lupo, concerns expulsion from the University. Formerly, expulsion action was at the sole discretion of the President. The revision provides that no student will be expelled without due process.

Lupo also successfully worked on getting a student representative on the Athletic Advisory Board. ASSU presidents will now be permanent members of the Board.

He would also like to see a student representative on the Faculty Rank and Tenure committee but no action has been taken along that line.

The State Liquor Board turned down the request for a liquor license for the Tabard Inn, Lupo said.

MEMBERS OF THE Board of Trustees and the University lawyer plan to appeal the decision, however.

Lupo has also finished negotiating with Warner Brothers for 20 first-run feature movies to be shown throughout the year. Admission will be 65 cents.

Senate business is the major concern of John Peterson, ASSU first vice president. He is currently working on filling student vacancies in the University standing committees.

Eight positions are available, all but one of which are open to students at all levels, Peterson said, stressing that it is an opportunity for students to "get a piece of the action."

FOUR SENATE positions are also available.

He would like to see increased student interest in elections. Peterson added that he is optimistic about the new senators elected last spring.

"I think there are several capable people with constructive ideas."

A campus survey and evaluation are the main points of

Library displays teacher evaluation results

Did you ever wonder what became of the teacher evaluation surveys taken last year?

The results are readily accessible to interested students at the reserve desk of the A. A. Lemieux Library. Before viewing the data, students are asked to sign a register. This is done at the request of Pat Lupo, ASSU president.

ACCORDING TO LUPU, the formality is merely "to give me some idea of how many students are actually making use of the data. I also want their comments."

The ASSU has decided to maintain the teacher evaluation survey as a service of their office. However, the survey will be taken only once this year and it will be done during winter quarter. Lupo stated that it was planned this way because "we've maintained some kind of consistency over the last two quarters and therefore all we have to do is update our evaluation materials."

Lupo feels that the outlook for future evaluations is favorable and that the surveys do indeed serve their purpose. "If a lot of people use it, then it's served its purpose," Lupo added. "And the individual faculty instructors received their own evaluation. If they use it as a learning tool, it will have served its purpose, too."

Amendments benefit University

by Robyn Fritz

S.U. must wait a year before it will benefit financially from the passage of the Education Amendments of 1972.

This Act, intended to amend the Higher Education Act of 1965, will remain dead for at least a year until Congress appropriates the necessary funds for it, according to Adm. George Towner, administrative assistant to the Very Rev. Louis Gaffney, S.J., President of S.U.

FR. GAFFNEY appointed a committee of S.U. faculty members and administrators, headed by Dr. Gary Zimmerman of the chemistry dept., to study the new educational amendments and their possible effect on S.U.

"It was Fr. Gaffney's idea to get in the position that if and when money is appropriated to various parts in the new educational amendments we can jump in and get our requests in," Adm. Towner said.

He also said that the committee discovered that the new amendments cover everything from student aid to strengthening college libraries. The committee's work then was to divide the various aspects covered by the Act into different levels of concern for S.U.

IN A REPORT submitted to Fr. Gaffney last week, the committee listed the student-assistance program as a top priority.

Under the new amendments, the Educational Association would set up a new program called the Basic Educational Opportunity Grant, which would be based on the possibility of granting a maximum sum to needy students of $1400, minus the amount his family could afford. This amount of parental aid would be determined by the use of the Parents' Confidential Statement. However, appropriations for this new educational grant will not be made until the funding of current means of student aid has reached certain minimum levels, Adm. Towner stressed.

Another area granted top consideration by the committee was the new institutional assistance program that would be in operation under the new amendments.

ACCORDING TO Adm. Towner, an extensive program of federal aid to colleges and universities would be based on three areas of consideration: the first would concern the amount of funds received by that particular institution for current educational opportunity grants such as the work-study program. The second would concern that institution's use of the Basic Educational Opportunity Grants, if and when money is appropriated for it. The third and least decisive area would concern the number of graduate students enrolled in the University.

business for Creighton Balinbin, ASSU second vice president.

A questionnaire, involving a cross section of the campus, is being designed to get an idea of the type of activities students might attend.

BALINBIN WOULD LIKE to see smaller clubs work together to put on campus functions. He has also scheduled several Activities Board meetings to finalize plans for this quarter's activities and work on those of next quarter.

The second vice president also plans a club promotion week the third or fourth week in October.

Tim Flynn, ASSU treasurer, is working on reorganizing the locker and treasurer's books. Present records go back to 1966, when they were last changed.

The modification will allow the treasurer to keep an accurate running account of all club balances.

Jeff Jones, ASSU publicity director, would like to see that all club publicity directors know how to use the ASSU and University Relations to publicize their events.

HE IS PRESENTLY working on establishing better means of publicity.

The problem, Jones feels, is that "nobody knows what is going on."

He would like to set up a central location for information about various events.

Jones is also looking into the possibility of an independent public address system for the cheerleaders at basketball games.

Paula Bielski, ASSU secretary, is working on a list of club presidents and advisers which will be available to students.

Gaffney absent

The Very Rev. Louis Gaffney, S.J., University President, will be absent from campus for about a month. He is undergoing major surgery on a hip which has deteriorated from arthritis.

Dr. William A. Guppy, academic vice president, will be in charge of the University.

Political Awareness planned next week to assist students

Political Awareness Week, designed to give students a chance to prepare for the upcoming election, will be next week.

Beginning Monday, each day of the week will be devoted to one race or issue on the ballot.

Candidates, movies and possibly a mock election have been scheduled.

Larry Brouse, Political Union president and Awareness Week organizer, noted that the activities will give the University and the community a chance to meet the candidates.

Candidates' speeches will be preceded with a keynote address on office qualifications.

Graduate studies meeting set

There will be an important meeting for all students interested in graduate work, at noon Thursday in the Library Auditorium. The Graduate Studies committee will be interviewing applicants for Rhodes, Marshall, Fulbright and Danforth fellowships this month. Members of the committee will be on hand to describe those fellowships and how to apply for them. Students can also learn how the Graduate Studies office can assist them in selecting and applying to a graduate school.

Extra library tours scheduled

New students who missed the library tours during Orientation Week will have a chance to have a guided tour Friday afternoon. Tours will start from the circulation desk on the second floor every half-hour beginning at 1 p.m. The last tour will be at 3 p.m.

Still available: Aegis '72

Several hundred copies of Aegis '72, S.U.'s yearbook, are still available.

really unreal ...

To the Editor:

I really can't believe it, but it seems that the ASSU has finally decided to move at a rate slightly above the pace of a dead snail. I mean, an activities calendar and all!

That's really unreal. And promises of movies and things! Unreal! In twenty or thirty years we should really have a terrific place. Of course, they still won't tell us when and where Senate meetings are held.

THEN AGAIN this flurry of activity(?) may be just to impress the incoming students.

Maybe it isn't so Unreal at all.

Intramurals to feature football, volleyball

Men's and women's football, volleyball, cross country and golf will be the intramural sports highlighted fall quarter, according to Janet Curran and Ed Crafton, student intramural directors.

Men's and women's football and volleyball team entries will be taken through October 10.

ROSTERS MUST include printed name of player, plus his or her own written signature, student number and credit hours. Football rosters must have a minimum of 15 players and volleyball teams must have a minimum of 10 players.

Each team captain should present his or her roster to the Intramurals office and should be present at a captains meeting, Oct. 6, in the Connolly P.E. Center. A second meeting will be Oct. 10 and is mandatory for all football and volleyball captains.

Individual golf and cross country events will also be held, according to Crafton. Signups for the individual men's and women's golf match, Oct. 11, are currently being taken through Oct. 6.

Signups for the 1½-mile cross country meet, Oct. 18, are being taken through Oct. 17 at Connolly Center.

THE WEST POOL and the sauna bath, according to Ms. Curran, have been reserved for women Monday thru Friday from 4-5 p.m. A swim-and-trim program involving water exercises and instruction on strokes will be used.

Chiefs to battle S.P.C. tonight

The soccer team, coming off a 4-0 victory over Central Washington State, will host Seattle Pacific College tonight at 7 p.m. at Lower Woodland Park.

Against Central, Saturday, the Chiefs led only 1-0 at the end of the first half. The lone score came on a shot by sophomore Fred Robinson.

S.U. opened the game up in the second half with two goals by Abdulla Majhdowi and one by Omar Khashoggi. The Chief defense led by Edo Vanni and Mike Ortman was outstanding, only allowing four shots on goal.

Sweet Lou Johnson speaks out on Connolly Center, intramurals

by Ed Hayduk

Lou Johnson is the new assistant director of the Connolly P.E. Center. Johnson, an ex-major league baseball player, is part of a new regime, headed by Bill Meyer, at the sports complex.

How did you get the nickname, Sweet Lou, anyway?

Johnson: "Down in L.A. in 1965 at the end of the season. We were going into a series with Pittsburgh and they were leading by three and a half games, so we needed to win the whole series."

"SO WE THREW the 'Super Jew' at them once, and the 'Big Swede' at them once and the little southpaw, Osteen, at them once. So in that series I went to bat 19 times, had 13 hits and drove in something like nine runs."

"So I was being interviewed and I just said, 'Hey, man, Sweet Lou can do it all.'"

How did you get interested in the Seattle area?

"IT WAS right after the season in 1970. I was hanging around with O. C. Smith. Yea man, O. C. and me are really tight. We broke bread together."

"So I stuck around here and got some promises for some jobs. I wanted to get away from L.A. And I know all the basketball players like Jim McDaniels and one of my favorite guys is Elg."

You're good friends with Elgin Baylor?

"Yea, we're tight. We're tight as two peas in a pod. He was up here and told me the job was open. I needed something where I could move. I can spend 15 minutes in my office and the rest of the day in different parts of the building."

How are you qualified for your job at the center?

"I know all areas of sports. I know people. It's a challenge job. Whatever we do, it's better than what we had. I'm talking in reference to both the community and the students. The building itself belongs to Seattle University but Seattle University hasn't been using it as it should."

How do you mean?

"BECAUSE OF little problems that arise, things get back to campus and nobody wants to come down because Black kids come here."

"Then you have the situation where someone might rip off something or somebody might cuss out somebody. If you have directionship prior to that, it could be stopped right here."

"You have one story going this way and another going that way, and then you have a conflict, a community conflict."

How about the intramural program?

"The intramural program hasn't been anything. This makes the University. This is my main problem—no, excuse me, we don't have problems—my main opportunity. You dig it?"

"I'm talking about Fr. Gafney on down. I want him to come here. Don't wait for someone to come up and say, 'Hey, there's something going on down there.'"

"NO, COME UP and see it yourself. I want everyone involved."

You want the faculty to participate?

"If we have to we'll have slow pitch, slow breaking basketball, we'll even have slow walk. This is something everyone can do on this campus together."

"These old guys who are fifty years old and just want to sit. They can come out and do something. You don't have to be in the classroom all the time."

"There's a lot you can talk about just walking those two blocks over here that you can't talk about in the classroom. With 3,000 students, this should be like a big family."

How about the black-white thing?

"There's another way than saying, put two blacks, with three whites. There's got to be a feeling there."

What else will be going on?

"WE ARE GOING to have more co-ed activities. We're going to have inner-tube basketball in the pool. We're changing powder puff football to the mud-hens. The girls are going to play outdoors in the mud."

"I want everyone to partici- pate because there is something everyone can do. They can play checkers, I'm the best in the world. They can shoot dice, I'll teach them to shoot dice. There is something in this building everyone can do. If someone wants to change their religion, I'll change it. I'll take them to a Baptist church."

You like working for Seattle University?

"So far, I'm the type of cat who doesn't need much, just people. I don't let anyone beat me in anything and I don't play anything in which I know I might lose."

"You know what I need when I'm working with hard core kids, a deck of cards, a pool cue, and some dice. I'll just keep beating them and they will keep coming back for more, until they can beat me."

Can you live with the Jesuits?

"Can I live with them? I've been living with them for 39 years. Yea, I can live with them. Can they live with me?"

women's commission to meet

Women's Commission will hold its first general meeting of the academic year tonight at 7 p.m. in the Chieftain Lounge. Attendance is mandatory for all members and all new students interested in actively participating in the commission are urged to attend.

Women's Commission, an offspring of AWS, is a newly formed task-force designed to meet the needs of women students on this campus. Commission members hope to reach faculty and staff women as well as students in their varied spectrum of research projects and activities throughout the upcoming year.

Long range goals of the organization include the establishment of a Women's Studies program, a Day Care Center and a Women's Center on campus.

teatro tryouts today, tomorrow

Tryouts for two fall productions at Teatro Inigo are scheduled for today and tomorrow from 1-4 p.m. in the theatre.

The first production is Rashomon, a drama written by Michael and Fay Kanin based on stories by Ryunosuke Akutagawa which delves into the nature of truth. The production is slated to open Nov. 16. It requires six men and three women.

The second production is The York Nativity Play which has been adapted by Tony Gray and Ken Kurtenbach, a drama major. It is slated to open Dec. 4 and actors, dancers, singers and musicians will be needed.

For further information, call 626-6740.

'respect for life' week

As a result of a recent resolution adopted by the National Conference of Catholic Bishops, Oct. 1-7 is Respect for Life Week.

The S.U. Chapter of State of Washington Associated Nursing Students (SWANS) has planned the 12:10 p.m. Masses in the Liturgical Center.

Today, Fr. Robert J. Egan's, S.J., theme will be The Aged. Tomorrow, Fr. Michael M. Kelliher, S.J., will celebrate the Mass with the theme, The Poor. Thursday, Fr. John S. Schwarz, S.J., theme will be The Young and Friday Fr. William F. LaRoux, S.J., will celebrate a Mass whose theme is Peace and Justice.

Beethoven and Prokofiev

Victor Steinhardt, U.W. faculty member, will perform Beethoven and Prokofiev sonatas for piano Wednesday at 2:10-3 p.m. in Pigott Auditorium.

Admission is free to all students, faculty and staff.

voter registration slated

If you have not yet registered to vote—do so now! The deadline for voter registration in this state is Saturday, Oct. 7, for those wishing to participate in the upcoming Presidential election.

There will be registration booths in both the Chieftain cafeteria and Bellarmine lobby from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. Tuesday through Friday. There will be a booth Saturday in Bellarmine lobby during the noon hour only.

Choir will spend break in Hawaii

The Hawaiian Islands are on the horizon next spring for the S.U. A' Capella Choir, according to Lou Kelly, choir director.

The Choir and Ensemble plan to visit the islands of Oahu and Maui as ambassadors of the University during the projected nine-day trip during spring break. Concerts and accommodations already are being arranged with S.U. alums and students from the islands.

FOR THE PAST two years the A' Capella Choir has taken its performances up and down the west coast. It has financed the trips through donations, paid performances, and work projects.

Among those choir members heading committees to raise an estimated $10,000.00 for plane fare are: Greg Shilley, Jim Kramer, Dave Kocharhook, Harold Nelson, Ron Bennett, Bernadette Sacquitne, Suzie Besecker, Laura Walter, Mary McIntosh, and Dolores Osterhaus.

Various fund raising events planned are a spaghetti dinner, a raffle (grand prize: a vacation in Hawaii) and possibly bingo.

THE GROUPS begin rehearsals this week in the extensively remodeled Fine Arts Building.

With 95 members this quarter, they are the largest choir and ensemble the school has produced. There is still space, however, for new members. Anyone interested may contact Kelly in 108 Buhr Hall, or at 626-6629.
